Jets Strike Positions of Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam
(AP)—U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps jets struck at Communist positions in Quang Ngai Province today after three days of hard fighting in which an estimated 500 government troops were killed, wounded or missing.

Unofficial reports said two U.S. Army men were killed in the action west of the provincial capital, and that a U.S. airman was wounded.

U.S. officials also reported 155
other government casualties—35 killed, 20 wounded and 100 missing—at the Khe Tri outpost near the border with North Viet Nam. The Viet Cong overran the post Friday night. A government relief force retook it Saturday. The Viet Cong struck back, dispersed the relief force and escaped before a second relief force arrived.

In Quang Ngai, 65 miles southeast of the big Da Nang air base, U.S. officials said the Viet Cong appeared to be pulling back.

The government rushed in reinforcements, but a counterattack was delayed, apparently because of bad weather.

13 Arrested
After Church
Policy Protest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Authorities arrested 13 persons at Crawfordville, Ga., as Negroes attempted unsuccessfully to integrate two white Baptist churches and held another series of protest marches.

Negroes then marched around the courthouse in protest to the arrests and later about 200 held a rally there.

The Negroes also picketed the residence of Lola H. Williams, county school superintendent,
until they were told that a resident was ill and ordered to leave.

The picketing was in protest to the failure of the school board to renew contracts of six Negro teachers, an action which touched off the demonstrations last Wednesday.

March Called Off
Elsewhere, civil rights workers at Bogalusa, La., called off plans for a march on city hall and said they will go to court to seek adequate protection for picketers and civil rights demonstrators.

Dominicans to Allow Inter-American Force
To Occupy Palace

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican junta has agreed to let the inter-American peace force occupy the National Palace, scene of several recent cease-fire violations.

Dr. Jose A. Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, said junta
chief Brig. Gen Antonio Imbert Barrera agreed to the move "in principle" at a meeting Sunday night.

Mora said Imbert still had to discuss the step with the junta's armed forces chief, Commodore Francisco J. Rivera Caminero.
Mora hoped the peace force could occupy the palace today.

Military sources said Brazilian troops would occupy the palace, which is in no man's land between the international safety zone and rebel territory.
It is now held by 400 junta troops.

U. S. Mourns Its War Dead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation mourned its war dead in Memorial Day services Sunday. Taps sounded, bands marched and speakers paid public tribute to those who died.

More ceremonies were set for today which is listed officially in some communities for observance of the holiday. Among the events are the traditional New York City parade sponsored by the United War Veterans; a ceremony in Brooklyn dedicating a bust of the late President John F. Kennedy, and services at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, scene of the 1941 Japanese attack.

Some 50,000 persons visited Arlington National Cemetery
where more than 130,000 Americans who fought in the nation's wars from 1776 to Viet Nam are buried.

Sisters' Picnic All but Rained Out

Three Nuns from Holy Angels Catholic School, Darboy, put their prayer books aside for a few hours and enjoyed a card game Thursday at the Knights of Columbus-sponsored picnic. They are Sister Angre, Sister M. Theodora and Sister M. Rosella. At right, bingo claimed the attention of Sister M. Donata, St. Joseph School; and Sister Rose Lucille and Sister John Joseph, both of Sacred Heart.

Every year the Father Fitzmaurice Council 807, Knights of Columbus, treats the nuns of the Fox Cities to a picnic and day of relaxation. This year the party had problems getting off the ground. Brighton Beach in Menasha, the usual picnic site, had to be abandoned because of the lake flies. Monte Alverno Retreat House turned out to be unsuitable for an outdoor event because of the sudden cold weather Thursday.

Xavier Commons filled the need for a picnic setting, and the sisters enjoyed cards, bingo and games of skill instead of baseball, boating and climbing trees.

The Aroma of Hamburgers roasting over charcoal has an almost magnetic effect and Sister M. Maura and Sister M. Faelon, both of St. Mary School, enjoyed both the fire's warmth and a chat with Richard Fitzpatrick, who served as picnic chairman.

Food and Drink are the ingredients that make for successful picnics and the nuns agreed that insects and cool weather didn't hurt theirs this year. Above are Sister M. De Sales of St. Therese and Sister M. Fidelia of Mackville.

Games to Test their skill were played by Sister M. Sebastian of Xavier High School and Sister M. Aquinata, principal of St. Therese. The event was moved twice before settling down at Xavier. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Your Problems

Inadequacies of Daughter's Mate Exploited by Mother

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS I've been reading your column for years and have never seen a problem like mine.

My son's mother-in-law telephones me at least twice a week to complain about something my son did or did not do. For instance, this morning Mrs. Pain-In-The-Neck called me at 7:30 a.m. and said, "Your son left for High Point this morning and didn't leave Marcella any money. He won't be back until tomorrow and the poor girl hasn't got a dime. I'll have to take some money over to her right away."

Last week she called to tell me my son gave Marcella only one hour's notice and brought three business friends home for cocktails. Marcella didn't have any soda or lemons in the house. The place was a mess and she didn't even have time to comb her hair.

Marcella happens to be a lazy, disorganized slob. I don't want to become involved in their troubles and I don't want Mrs. Pain-In-The-Neck to tell me what goes on between them. What do you recommend?—H. J. K.

Dear H. J. K.: The next time Mrs. Pain-In-The-Neck calls say this: "It breaks my heart that a fine, lovely girl like Marcella married a worthless, no-good bum like my son. She could have done much better—and I'm sorry she didn't. Please don't tell me any more sad stories about those two because it spoils my whole day."

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am a middle-aged, sensible, God-fearing woman. Here is my story and I'd like your views.

Three months ago a man I've known for years telephoned and asked for help. He had been transferred to this city and was having a difficult time finding a conscience may be clear but your reputation is going to be mud if you don't get that man out of there.

People make judgments based on what they see, and when they see an unmarried man and woman sharing an apartment they assume the couple is not playing Chinese Checkers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS Our neighbors have a 23-year-old son who served in the marines and was discharged last fall. This boy is a smart aleck who knows more tricks than a monkey with a rope.

I say him wearing his Marine uniform on the street yesterday and asked if he was going to a parade. He said, "No—I'm going to the ball game. The uniform gets me in for half-price." Then he added, "I always wear my uniform when I want to hitch a ride to Richmond or Washington."

Is this against the law?—Just Asking

Dear Just: My Marine authorities in Chicago say an inactive member may wear the uniform only when attending a military funeral, a wedding, a Presidential inauguration or when participating in a parade.

This boy is abusing the uniform and he could get into trouble.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

SUFFERING WIFE

Dear Louise: All our friends and acquaintances have known for six years that I must spend two hours in bed every afternoon. This is an order from my physician and I will have to do this for the rest of my life. Last Sunday a friend telephoned to ask if she and her husband could drop in for a few minutes to say hello. The husband is a pediatrician and was a classmate of my husband in medical school. We as a foursome have been close friends these many years. The couple arrived and after an hour I was in such severe pain that I had to excuse myself to go to bed. After another hour they departed. Later, my husband took me to task by saying that I should have remained on the scene until our guests had left. I would like your opinion about this. As the gracious hostess, should I have stuck it out to the bitter and painful end?

Miss Davis

Louise Davis Answers:

No. After I finished reading your letter, I did a bit of seething at the two men and at the wife for being so thoughtless. All must know that your health comfort and well-being come before anything else and that social amenities should have gone to the four winds in your case. Obviously the two MDs made you a victim of their thoughtlessness and knowledge of your limitations. They momentarily stepped out of their role of professional dedication of one spade or one heart. Sorry to say, I'm more surprised at your husband's attitude than I am at the other two who were at least as bad. So the two medical men as human beings, not as physicians, are getting a scolding from me.

Sheinwold Depend on Mind Not On Looks

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A player who has a singleton ace usually leads it out as soon as he can and then stops to look for a way to reach dummy for other high cards in the suit. Don't relax when this seems to be happening. Some bridge players are sly fascals.

South won the first trick with the jack of spades and counted his tricks. He could surely take seven more tricks in the red suits but that would still leave him one trick short.

If West had the ace of clubs South could set up a club trick at any time. He would be safe against a spade continuation from the West seat. If East had the ace of clubs there was danger that he would take it and lead a spade whereupon West's spades would defeat the contract.

South thought of running the diamonds in the hope of persuading West to discard a spade or two. This was not likely to work. As the cards lay East would signal in clubs and would save the ace of clubs a spade and his hearts. West would save all of his spades one club and two hearts.

Misleading Play

South made his contract by leading the ace of diamonds at the second trick. Then he led the king of clubs. East refused the trick thinking that South had no more diamonds and needed a club entry to dummy. That was a mistake. South said to East: "It's very polite to tell your opponents exactly where they have blundered." Then South ran his nine tricks. East was very foolish to play South for a singleton ace of diamonds. West had five clubs at most and would have seven cards in spades and hearts if he had a singleton diamond. He would surely have a better rebid of one spade or one heart than two notrump. East should have thought about this instead of relying on appearances.

What do you say?

Answer: Pass. This might rate a very doubtful overcall of one spade over an opening bid of one diamond or one club but the hand is worth only a pass over one heart. For one thing you have too many losers in an opponent's bid suit and for another the next opponent is likely to be short in hearts and will be itching to double you if he can.

Plans for Palace Died With Former President

By HAL BOYLE

A site was cleared atop one of foundations for the palace. Then, Diem was killed during a political coup, and his unfinished palace hideaway now stands as a mute memorial to his vanished dream.

On the plateau now is a training camp for civilian irregular defense groups, quasi-soldiers who are thrown against the guerrillas whose job is to protect isolated villages from Viet Cong raids.

Some of the volunteers once fought against the French in these same hills. Most are quite young, some only 16 years old. But after six weeks of training here they are deemed ready to engage anyone on a patrol ever saw.

Davidson could be forgiven a bit of homesickness. He was married only three months ago, and a month later had to leave his bride to come to this isolated outpost in a strange land.

To an outsider these lonely circles of security in an enemy sea seem terribly vulnerable to mass attacks. The airstrips are their only lifeline to the outside world.

"We could be overrun," acknowledged the unworried lieutenant, "but they'd have to spend an awful lot of people to do it — more people than they can afford."

"We were mortared once, but they quit as soon as we returned their fire."

"After all, this place is pretty well defended with prepared positions, concrete bunkers and miles of barbed wire and mine fields."

Aside from the guerrillas, the history of the world.

"In any case, we weren't in many forms of wild game, overwhelmed."

UW Speaker Policy Blasted in Appleton Memorial Service

Big Crowds Watch Parade to Riverside Cemetery Before Talk

The University of Wisconsin's philosophy of allowing Communists to speak on its campus was blasted today in a Memorial Day address at Riverside Cemetery by Henry Woyach, Milwaukee, national service officer for the Catholic War Veterans.

Woyach said "without exception" the speakers who are allowed to preach on the campus under the school's academic freedom policy "are (1) communists who have served prison sentences for advocating the overthrow of the government by force, or (2) were investigated for subversive activity or (3) have concealed pleading the Fifth amendment."

Woyach, who said the university has preached academic freedom without emphasizing the responsibility which goes with the freedom, said the speakers "are unfit individuals to influence our youth."

The speaker urged a crowd of several hundred to "use papers and pencils and a five cent stamp" in making known its ideas on any given subject.

Woyach said "we are all guilty" of allowing ourselves to slip into a morally decadent world where "sex has become the watchword of our daily routine."

He called for a return to the good old days of the "woodshed philosophy where a lesson was heard the hard way."

The speaker cited Appleton's late Sen. Joseph McCarthy who, he said, "died of a broken heart over the apathy of the American people." He said McCarthy was an example of a "very honorable and noble citizen" whose efforts were outstanding in defending America against Communist agents "who would destroy the many freedoms that strangely allow them to spew their red philosophy without restraint."

Keep America Free

Woyach said he was "pleading with his audience" to rededication to keeping America free by casting a vote in each election, respecting the rights of fellow-men "regardless of his race, color or creed."

"If you do this, then for sure will our flag wave free so that these men will not have died in vain."

The speech followed a piper's trill note played in practice. That was the signal this morning for hundreds of parade watchers who had gathered along the city's main streets in preparation for the annual Memorial Day parade.

As advertised, the parade which had begun forming in parking lots and along narrow streets since about 7:30 a.m., moved out at 9 a.m. led by the city band.

Excitement Reflected

Excitement, read in the faces along E. College Avenue for the early rising parade watchers, was reflected in the several hundred faces of parade marchers.

An Appleton High School bandsman was so excited when his unit moved out that he dropped his music on the street. Members of the Lawrence University color guard practiced a Queen's Ann salute with their weapons, and one member's weapon fell apart as it whirled in the air.

Members of the police and fire departments, dressed in their white-shirt best, followed the city band along E. College avenue and were backed up by members of the Army and Navy National Guards and Reserve units.

Open convertibles, flag decked closed cars, each carrying dignitaries and participants in a cemetery ceremony following.

Motorists Uninjured In Calumet Accidents

CHILTON — Two motorists escaped injury in accidents Friday night near Brothertown. At 9:38 p.m., 2½ miles south of Brothertown at the intersection of State 55 and U.S. 151, the car driven by Sandra K. Higgins, 22, Manitowoc, went into the ditch. She told police she fell asleep at the wheel.

At 10:21 p.m. the car driven by Norman W. Thurmer, 23, Malone, wound up in the ditch at Brothertown. Thurmer told police he was headed west on County Trunk H, applied his brakes to stop at the intersection with State 55-U.S. 151, slid across the highway and went into the ditch. The car tipped.

He added that various religions with beliefs in God have been "fighting among themselves."

"If we unite and forget our differences, we will put up a better fight against communism and atheism," he said.

Priest Describes U.S. as Decaying From Inside in Moral Calamity

NEENAH—America was described Sunday as being in a "moral calamity and falling apart from the inside as have other generations in the history of the world."

Rev. James W. Craanen, St. Margaret Mary Church, told Neenah High School baccalaureate audience of this nation's current state of moral affairs and decline in the face of Communism.

"I don't know how long America can stand this erosion of principles, but if we intend to survive, maybe we had better do something about the pretense that there is no difference between the genuinely unfortunate and the mobs of reliefers—parasites!" he said.

Decline From Inside

Any civilization that fell before in history began its decline from the inside, he said.

"As I look upon our own country, there is much I see that disturbs me. We are a great people and a great nation. We will not be given centuries for a leisurely and comfortable decay. We have an enemy remorseless, crude, brutal and cocky. Communists believe we are in an advanced state of moral decay. We are the Sodom and Gomorrah of the 20th Century," he said.

Rev. Craanen listed these points against the U. S.:

Progressive Education

The nation is in its third decade of national insanity known as progressive education where everybody passes and report cards are non-committal. All move at a snail's pace so the slowest might not be left behind and all proceed toward maturity together. We have been engaged in the wholesale mass production of a mediocrity.

Americans have neglected discipline in art. All a person needs today is pigment and a press agent.

Four Men Injured When Car Strikes Bridge Abutment

KAUKAUNA — Four men were injured at 7:20 p.m. Sunday night when the car they were riding in struck a concrete bridge abutment and railroad warning sign on Island Street near Dodge Street.

Donald Vanderloop, 21, route 1, Brillion, suffered a broken jaw and lacerations. He was the driver of the car which was headed south when the accident occurred. He was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital.

Also taken to the hospital for treatment were Jerry Ver Boekel, 23, route 3, Kaukauna, scalp lacerations, Edward Marx, 19, route 1, Menasha, lacerations to the scalp and right elbow and multiple bruises and lacerations to the chest, and David Van Von Deren, 21, route 4, Appleton, possible skull fracture.

All four were reported in fair condition this morning. Police said there was no evidence of skid marks and were unable to explain the cause of the accident.

Automobile Crash Shakes Appleton Girl

OSHKOSH — Sharon K. Lietz, 17, 619 Telulah Ave., Appleton, was shaken up in an accident at Gmeiners Road and George Street in Town of Menasha at 10:43 p.m. Saturday.

Miss Lietz was driving north on George Street when her car skidded sideways while attempting a turn onto Gmeiners Road. The vehicle went into a ditch and upped on its side. The auto received minor damage to the left side.

Memorial Day Has Twofold Meaning

Graduation Cited as Point Of Maturity

Priest Tells Seniors At St. Mary to Give of Selves

MENASHA — Graduation is a point of maturity and the graduate must now be prepared to give of himself to others, the Rev. Robert Colle, rector, Sacred Heart Seminary, told the 146 graduates of St. Mary's High School Sunday afternoon.

"At the time of graduation," he said, "the high school student necessarily looks in two directions. The direction behind and all that has been given to him by the love and labors of others, and the direction that lies ahead in which he will now be expected to give to others. This is the point of maturity, for it is the child who receives and the adult who gives."

Father Colle continued that a sense of realization and appreciation should accompany the fact of graduation.

Sense of Appreciation

"A sense of appreciation at the values that have been yours because you are a member of a society which grants a maximum amount of freedom and the opportunity for individual initiative — a way of life that has been characterized by prosperity and freedom from want that is so prevalent in today's world."

"A sense of appreciation for the heritage of our ancient faith necessarily a part of Catholic education. A doctrine to answer the great and vital questions of life, a moral rule which directs our actions toward the more perfect fulfillment of our human natures. Finally, the mass and sacraments which enable us to participate in a life that is truly Godlike."

Seek to Give

"And, a sense of appreciation for the sacrifices of family and community which have made a modern high school education possible. And the dedication and labors of teachers who have given us the knowledge and examples of their own lives."

Father Colle concluded that "having received, the graduate now seeks to give himself to others. A growing vital community is only possible because others are willing to give themselves to this community. The world can only remain as good as it is or become better if the graduate is willing to communicate to it that which he has received from others."

Menasha Youth Injured in Crash

OSHKOSH—Gary T. Williams, 19, 723 John St., Menasha, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital in the Neenah Ambulance suffering from shock after an accident on Irish Road, one-half mile north of County Trunk U, in Town of Menasha at 11:49 p.m. Sunday.

Williams was driving north when an oncoming vehicle forced him off the road. He lost control of his car and skidded across the road. The car received minor damage to the right front fender.

65 to be Confirmed Sunday at Hilbert

HILBERT — The Most Rev. John B. Grellinger, Auxiliary Bishop of Green Bay, will administer the rite of confirmation to 65 candidates at 3 p.m. Sunday at St. Mary Catholic Church.

Attending will be former pastor the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin Jaekels and pastors of neighboring parishes.

Remember Past, Reminder for Future, Speaker Tells State Legion Rite at Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — "Any never for imperialistic or materialistic causes, but only when Memorial Day must appropriately serve a double purpose, a remembrance for those who by their sacrifice have helped to keep America great, and a reminder for those who are soon to assume the awesome responsibility for maintaining and furthering the cause of freedom," said James Mulder, past department commander of the American Legion, at rites here Sunday evening.

He told of the original purpose of Memorial Day, how the formal for its observance was set and through the years grew as songs, music and poems of later wars enlarged the program.

The Memorial Day observance here is the official state ceremony for the American Legion.

"It is difficult for one to speak properly on Memorial Day, for lip-service on this day is almost an impropriety," said the speaker. "With words we make promises, plight faith, praise virtue. Promises may not be kept, plighted faith may be broken and vaunted virtue be only the mask for a cunning man of vice."

Do Not Know

"We do not know one promise our war dead made, one pledge they gave, one word they spoke; but we do know they summed up and perfected, by one supreme act, the highest virtues of men and citizens. For love of country they accepted death, and thus resolved all doubts and made immortal their patriotism and virtue."

The United States has been involved in eight major wars.

Cigarette Starts Fire In Waupaca Cottage

WAUPACA — The fire department was called to a cottage on Rainbow Lake at 1:50 a.m. Saturday when a cigarette started a blaze in a dayvenport.

The fire, which started in an upstairs bedroom, destroyed the dayvenport and a bed plus damaging other pieces of furniture.

The cottage, which was rented to an Illinois family, is owned by Virgil Samples.

Father Kleiber Tells Xavier Grads Of Need for Unity of Christians

A call for an end to "the terrible duplication of effort, all fight with our fellow Christians? done in the name of Christ," How can we quibble about because of lack of unity among indulgences and whether priests Christian sects was the theme should marry, and about faith of the commencement address and good works."

Recognize Gravity

Hopefully, he said, "I believe we Christians will recognize the gravity of the world situation — the precarious position in which Christianity finds itself today, we will get together and solve our difference, with God's help of course, but with an intense desire on the part of all Christians to bring the world to Christ."

Father Kleiber told the graduates there are several things they can do to help restore unity to Christianity. "First is that all of us realize the tremendous need for unity among all Christian churches," he said.

Secondly, "he continued, we must develop genuine feelings of love and respect for our brothers in Christ in other denominations. For far too long we have eyed each other with suspicion."

Father Kleiber told the graduates, "We must recognize bigotry in ourselves. We must be kind and loving toward all our fellowmen of all faiths. Finally, he told the assemblage, "We must pray."

He cautioned the students concerning the need of patience. "There is danger of acting precipitously and rashly — especially if you are young."

He concluded "I chose this topic because I believe this is a matter that must be of great concern to the graduates for all the priests and religious who are here, and for the parents, relatives and friends of the graduates. The subject of church unity is one that will require the full effort of the entire church, not just the clerical members of it."

Msgr. Adam Grill, pastor of St. Mary Church, Appleton, presented diplomas assisted by Sister M. Peter and Brother L. Peter.

Norbertine Abbot Predicts Birth Control

Council Action Likely in Fall, Order Head Says

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Birth control procedures for married Catholic couples will be allowed by the church in the future, the visiting abbot general of the Norbertine Order predicts.

Rev. Norbert Calmels, here from France to attend commencement exercises of Premonstratense and Abbot Pennings High schools and St. Norbert College, said in an interview that some action will be taken by the church's hierarchy this fall.

Father Calmels, a voting member of the Ecumenical Council, said its members have worked closely with doctors and other professionals in an attempt to solve the birth control problem.

Other Changes

Father Calmels said he was not at liberty to review Council action to date, but said when it comes to a vote he will favor some means of birth control.

He also predicted many other changes in the church as result of the Ecumenical Council.

Father Calmels said the Council was aware of adverse reaction from some Catholics to change, particularly older Christians.

"They are used to the old-fashioned ways and it's hard for them to accept the change. They feel that in some respects it is no longer their religion," Father Calmels said.

Step Forward

He said the majority of the Protestant religion is "sitting back waiting to see what happens." He explained that the Protestants generally look upon the changes in the church as "a step forward" in uniting people of various faiths.

"All those who believe in God are trying to unite, including the Jews," he said.

He added that various religions with beliefs in God have been "fighting among themselves."

"If we unite and forget our differences, we will put up a better fight against communism and atheism," he said.

St. Mary High Graduates Share Moments Together in Anticipation

MENASHA—"This is it," Mr. Donald Stoegbauer, administrator, told them. "By 'new breed' morning breakfast which has been cherished by each graduating class at St. Mary High School through the years. "As the Class of 1965 we are together for the last time as a group. When we leave here this morning, we will go our 146 separate ways. So this is the day of paradoxes. It is the day in which we remember the fun along with the heartache, take a moment for serious thought, string our remembrances, try to control our anticipation and nudging fright for what lies ahead. It is the dawn of our new hopes and privileges. And the world is our clay, to mold it in any shape we choose."

Standing Ovation
The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. Becker who has been venerated by 3,007 graduating seniors since the first graduating class of 14 on June 4, 1929, received a standing ovation from faculty and students.

"What are you going to give your children when the time comes? Your Honda? That would be fine, but the important heritage will be the way in which you practice the knowledge and will of God," he told them.

"St. Mary's was referred to in a recent Post-Crescent editorial as having made big footprints in Catholic education here in the Fox Valley. Continue to walk for in those footprints, remember, it was earning a 3.5 per cent profit on its $5 million plus investment."

Each year the seniors anticipate what the administration has to say about their class, including the things which make them different from the others.

Judge Urges Reassessment Of U. S. Policies

Herbert Mueller Tells Citizens to Voice Opinions on Issues

NEENAH - MENASHA—A Winnebago County judge today urged Americans to reassess world-wide economic, moral and social policies and urged a greater voice by Americans in decisions affecting them.

Judge Herbert J. Mueller spoke at ceremonies at Oak Hill Cemetery climaxed the annual Twin Cities Memorial Day observance and parade.

He questioned whether the dead would rest better because of the tears shed over them today and the honor again recalled. He said he believed more important was a rededication of self to the cause that those who died should not have died in vain.

Survey Policy
"In rededicating ourselves to that cause it would behoove us, to survey the policy we are presently following in the light of the world today," he said.

We should seriously consider our policy of trying to police the world and the results we have achieved as against a policy of a stronger alliance with the nations that border our shores, Mueller said.

Our thinking seems to have been—it is our duty to prevent the spread of Communism to the remote parts of the world, to guard against its gaining a stronger foothold in the smaller nations and enlarging the Communist territories, he said.

1 Nation Force
Judge Mueller said possibly our activities should encompass both plans by strengthening ties with neighboring nations and also policing the far remote countries. "Should we be a nation police force?" Mueller asked.

"Is our arms race and defense policy adequate in view of the world situation?" Mueller asked. "Is our military strength adequate to meet the challenge or are we spending money on moon shots that could be better used for home defense?" These questions should be evaluated by every person, Mueller said.

Not Opposed
The speaker said he didn't stand alone in this contention, nor did he wish to be classified as an individual who is opposed to our government or to any policy which it may have adopted. He said his thoughts and views are being expressed daily by members of the Senate and Representatives and many of our policy makers.

We as individuals should not content ourselves and adopt an attitude of apathy, but voice our disapproval, not by demonstrations or riots but by exercising our true American rights, by voting, by thinking and by communicating constructive ideas to those who could bring about such needed change, he said.

Water Rites
Observance started with water front services conducted from the Racine Street bridge in Menasha followed by a 28-mut parade that marched through both Menasha and Neenah to the cemetery.

Graveside ceremonies included the recitation of General Logan's Orders, Lincoln's Gettysburg address and the recitation of "Flanders Field," America's Answer and the traditional honoring of the dead with taps.

the parade were behind the guards and reserves. Gaps in the curbs were quickly plugged after the trilling piper and the piercing whistle of the city band leader, Andrew Schultz, sounded the parade's beginning.

Many youngsters, following their camera-laden fathers and mothers moved quickly to the curb to catch the first hint of a color guard or flag bearer.

Again the most discussed unit in the parade among the young watchers was the heavy-duty military equipment and the helmeted soldiers.

Units which were proudest to the beholders were the grade school bandmen and marching corps whose music was not the most perfect but whose enthusiasm was easily the greatest.

The parade followed a mile and one half route to the cemetery entrance where the units were disbanded and special ceremonies commemorating the nation's war dead were held.

$350 Damage in New London Crash

NEW LONDON — A two car collision at 5:30 p.m. Friday at S. Pearl and Cook Streets resulted in an estimated $350 damage.

City police said a car driven by Charles J. Frederick, 66, 1115 Jefferson St., had been parked facing south on Pearl Street and was pulling away from the curb when his car and one driven by Elizabeth C. Campbell, 25, Lombard, Ill., collided.

An estimated $150 damage resulted to the Frederick vehicle and $200 to the Campbell car.

Aug. 1 Charter Deadline for Iola Golf Club

U. S. Senators From Wisconsin Assure $190,000 Loan Okay

IOLA—The deadline for obtaining a charter membership in the Iola Community Golf Course has been set for Aug. 1.

The golf club is being organized by a group of local citizens. An appropriation of $190,000 to finance its construction already has been passed by the House of Representatives. Iola is only the second community in the state to receive a federal loan for the construction of a golf course for recreational facilities. Both Wisconsin senators have assured the local corporation that the money will be available and the measure passed after the new fiscal year begins July 1.

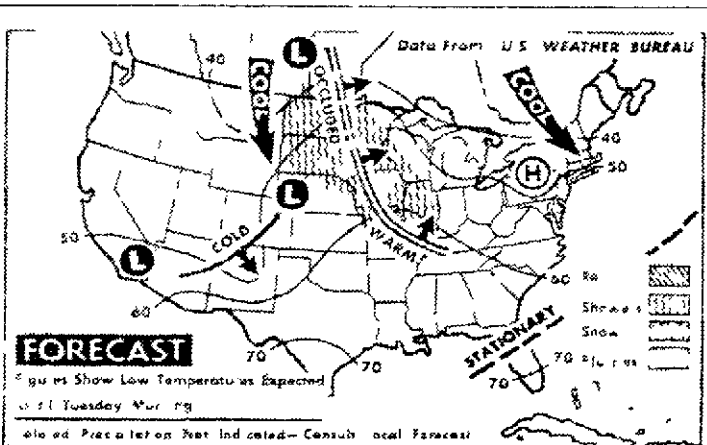

The proposed 9 hole golf course will be built northeast of the village, lying partly within the village limits and partly in the Town of Iola. Construction is expected to start in August or September.

$100 Voting Membership
The $100 voting membership stock which is now available will entitle families to course privileges no matter how many are in the family.

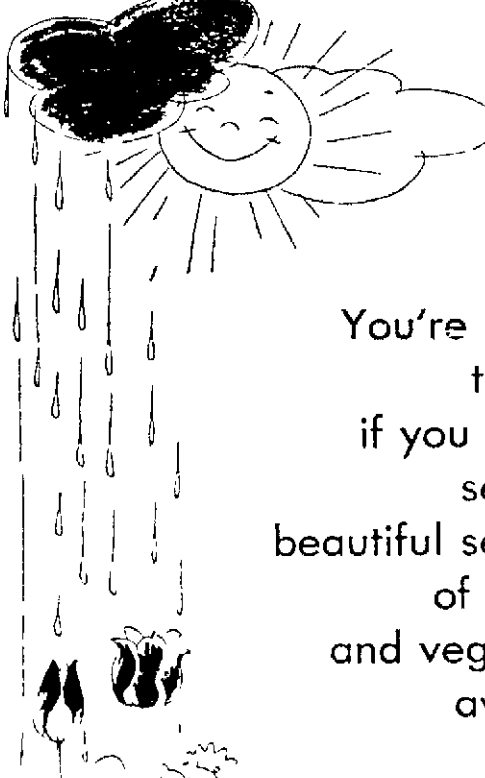

Members of the golf club are making a special drive to increase membership to qualify for the Farmers Home Administration loan which is now under consideration by Congress. Robert Crase has been appointed membership drive chairman by D. H. Omholt, president of the corporation. He will be assisted by Leland Johnson, William Jensen, Ed Rochette, Carl Waller and Adam Hoile.

A committee to sponsor a driving range this summer has also been formed. Al Langeland, chairman, assisted by James Lyman and Clifford Mishler. Driving range hours will be announced later. Last year more than 800 players used the driving range from mid-June to mid-August. This year it is being planned to bring in students to lead the stipe of life professional to assist beginners.

Holy Angels Pastor Be Proud, Commencement Speaker Advises St. John High Graduates

LITTLE CHUTE—Rev. Wilbur Rickett, pastor of Holy Angels Church, Sunday night told St. John High School graduates to be proud of their school, family, country, and themselves. He said the priest, commencement speaker, told graduates they could be proud of their school because it stressed scholastic excellence and provides an education which can compare favorably with any in the state. Scholastic competition is provided to prepare students to meet the challenge of the future, he said.

He told them to be proud of their families because it took work and sacrifice on their part to provide the graduates with a good Catholic education. Pointing to the low quality movies, literature, art and television aimed at undermining family life, he praised those parents who worked with teachers in school to teach students the principles of a good life. Sins are not imaginary, but real and the Catholic school helps students to lead the stipe of life for which they were created by God, said Father Rickett.

Communist Threat
Stressing pride in our country, he warned students of the Russian materialistic and atheistic way of life and the way

Russia has threatened to bury good life in a well-founded education. Your education has given you the spiritual reinforcements to lead a good life, stated the Rev. Mr. Vosbeek.

He felt students should use three bones in future life: a wish bone to dream of things they would like to own or possess; a jaw bone with which to ask how the things they desire can be gained; and a backbone with which to work and strive constantly to gain the dreams of life.

Award Winners
Janet Vande Voort was named valedictorian and received a savings bond for excellence in religion. Janet Versteegen was named salutatorian and earned an award for excellence in Latin and a legislative scholarship for her class ranking.

Pastor Speaks
Rev. Martin Vosbeek, parish pastor, spoke briefly following presentation of diplomas and awards. He advised students, to be engines and not a caboose as engines lead have a goal or destination and the caboose merely follows.

As an engine must remain on the tracks to avoid becoming a weapon of destruction so must students remain on the right track given them through their Catholic education, noted the pastor. He said students had been given the proper field for a

Five Injured in Saturday Night Crash in Neenah

NEENAH—Five people were taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital at 11:17 p.m. Saturday as the result of a head-on collision at the intersection of Clybourn and N. Commercial Streets, police said.

A car driven by Robert C. Anderson, 44, 1215 Oneida St., Appleton, traveling south on N. Commercial Street, swerved across the center line and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Gerald A. Nelson, Omro, police said.

The Neenah Fire Department ambulance took Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and Matthew Jackels, 339 E. South River St., Appleton, to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital and Harry Olson, 40 593 Pearl St., Oshkosh, and Steven A. Kobasta, 40 737 Maple St., were taken to the hospital by police squad car.

Four of the victims were treated and released. Jackels is reported in fair condition with facial lacerations and possible fractures of the nose and other facial bones, as well as the rib cage, according to hospital authorities.

Houston to be Control Site for Most Future Manned Space Shots

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—When the first U.S. astronaut land on the moon, word of the conquest will come from the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston.

The first meeting and docking in space of two separate space ships, expected late this year, also will be directed from the Houston center.

New Connecticut Law Requires Fluoridation

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—In a surprise move, the legislature has passed a law. John Dempsey has signed legislation requiring fluoridation of Connecticut's public water supplies.

Connecticut became the first state to pass such a law, although the District of Columbia has one.

The State Health Department earlier this year had proposed a regulation that would have accomplished exactly the same thing as the new law. Under the law, a fluoride compound will be put into the water as a measure to help prevent tooth decay.

Make a 'Sand City' From The Fronts of Cardboard

BY CAPPY DICK

It's fun to build 'Sand City' at the beach. To prepare for the undertaking, draw some building fronts.

1. Make a variety of designs. Have one front that resembles an apartment building, another that represents City Hall and others that resemble an office building, a church, a library, a school etc.

Note that each front has a pointed bottom. This point is to be pushed into the sand to hold the front upright.

Use Dampened Sand

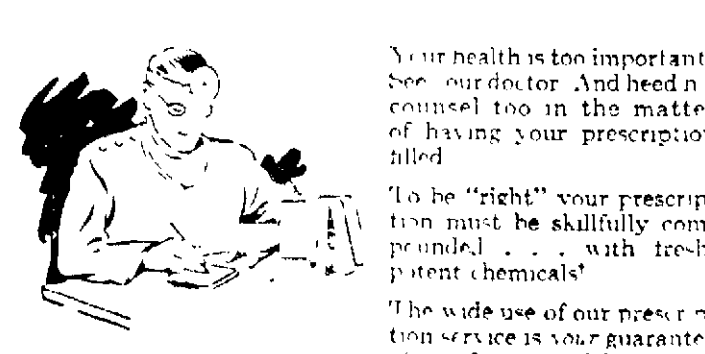

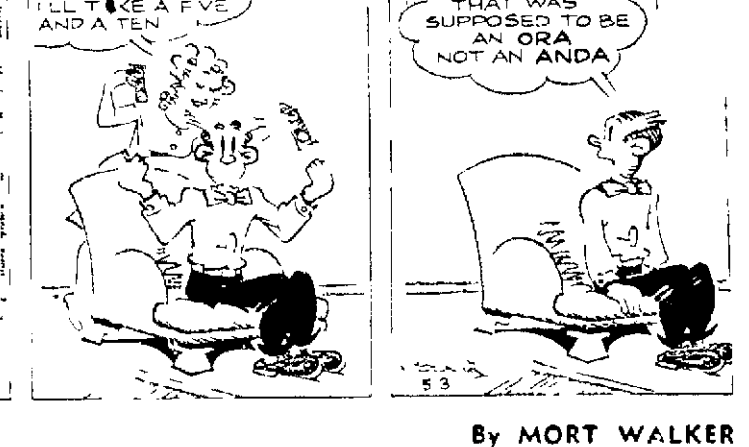

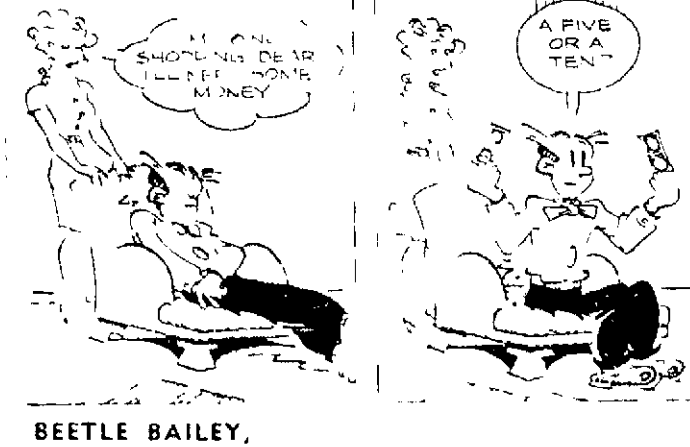

With the front in place, use slightly dampened sand to construct the bulk of the building back of the front as in Figure 2. A small trowel will be a handy tool for this part of the work.

Place the buildings in a row as in Figure 3.

At the end of your visit at the beach, remove the building fronts and take them home for future use.

Monday. Lots more good fun on cardboard and cut them out for every boy and girl! Examples are shown in Figure 1.

'Hillbillies' Scatter on Loot Making Rounds

Between-Season Jobs Include Records, Films, Summer Stock, Personal Appearances

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — 'Tis the season for television stars to go out and round up the loot, and the "Beverly Hillbillies" are doing it.

Irene Ryan is playing Las Vegas and Donna Douglas is co-starring in a movie with Elvis Presley during the between-season hiatus. Max Baer has a more pressing engagement with the U.S. Army, but he may be relieved of his reserve duty in time to pick up some cash with personal appearances.

Buddy Ebsen, the big daddy of the "Hillbillies," is playing it cool. He'll make a record album with his fellow players, another on his own, and he'll play in "Paint Your Wagon" for two weeks at the Valley Music Theater. Most of the rest of his time before the July start of shooting for next season will be spent amid his flotilla of boats on Balboa Bay, 50 miles south, where he maintains his home.

Long Time Coming

Buddy is a bit of a philosopher about career matters. While he enjoys the heights now, he has known the lows as well. In fact, he suffered a long period of bad luck than any actor I know. "Yep, for seven years I didn't work — seven years," he remarked.

This, he explained, came after he had spent three years in the Army, a year in "Show Boat" on Broadway and two years touring with "Goodnight, Ladies." Then the drought set in.

Had he saved his money? He shook his head. His Army service and a costly divorce had wiped out his prewar earnings. So how did he survive?

Supported By Friends

"Friends," he explained. "That was my sole source of support; friends. Otherwise I would have been forced to go into another line of work, as many people advised me to. One of the most important people in this town, whose name I won't mention, told me to get out of show business."

"Later I wrote him a letter thanking him for what he did. He made me so mad that I was more than ever determined not to quit."

I asked him what he did during the dry period. He became an expert furniture maker. He grew well acquainted with his family, which grew to a brood of four daughters — plus two by his first marriage. He wrote songs. But mostly he waited.

Finally in 1953, his luck changed. The first break came when he was cast in some Rex Allen Westerns at Republic. More films followed, then a big blast as Davy Crockett's sidekick, a role in the "Northwest Passage" series, etc. All this led up to his starring in the immensely popular — except with the critics — "Beverly Hillbillies."

7-8 (Channel 4-5) — "The Double Affair" on The Man From U.N.C.L.E. is highly reminiscent of the James Bond thriller, "From Russia With Love." Thrush gives one of its men a plastic surgery job so he can look just like Napoleon Solo. Repeat

8-9 (Channel 2) — The Andy Griffith Show is concerned with honesty in "Opie's Fortune," which tells what happens to a youngster who finds a purse with $50. Repeat

8-9 (Channel 2) — The ladies will especially enjoy The Lucy Show. In an all-out spoof of Candid Camera, Lucille Ball becomes the subject of a hidden camera experiment while she is at the beauty parlor. Repeat

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — Thank goodness. The Andy Williams Show hasn't yet gone into repeat sessions for the summer. With Art Carney and Peggy Lee as guests, it's still as fresh as it was last September. (COLOR)

8-9 (Channel 11) — Another big name guest, Phil Harris, visits The Bing Crosby Show. Repeat

9-10 (Channel 11) — Ben Casey's "A Woods Full of Question Marks" is a sensitive and a very moving account of the plight of the deaf. With students from Los Angeles' Mary E. Bennett School for the Deaf, the story has an authentic ring to it, too. Repeat

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Margaret Leighton, one of the queen bees of English actresses, plays a one-time Southern belle who is spending her frustrated mature years as a spinster on The Alfred Hitchcock Hour. Repeat

Jocelyne Bredin Lagards, 400-pound descendant of Tahiti's last reigning queen, has been chosen to play Queen Malina in the screen version of James Michener's "Hawaii." Unable to speak English at first, Miss Lagards now has mastered most of the 17 pages of script and is learning more to be ready for her film debut in Hawaii next month. (AP Wirephoto)

Russians Claim U. S. Pilot Has Repented

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency Tass claimed Saturday that an American pilot shot down and captured in North Viet Nam had repented for U.S. raids there.

Tass reported from Hanoi that the American had told Soviet newsmen in the Vietnamese capital that he was sorry for the raids, that his health was good and that he was treated well.

It identified the American as Capt. Philip N. Butler, 27, Le-moore, Calif., a Navy pilot assigned to fly raids on North Viet Nam from the U.S. aircraft carrier Midway. It said he was shot down on his third mission over Viet Nam on April 20.

Yes. The best antidote seems only look but examine carefully to be free communication that results in the play of different ideas. Herein lies one of the great values of freedom. It enables people to breathe and to remain critical of propaganda efforts. One of our great needs is to increase the areas of communication — to present people with different ideas and to encourage them to evaluate them. This is what should be meant by "thinking for yourself."

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, May 31, the 151st day of 1965. There are 214 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1889, between 2,000 and 3,000 lives were lost at Johnstown, Pa., when a dam burst at South Fork, 12 miles above the city. Fires added to the horror which inspired a $4 million dollar nationwide relief fund.

On this date

In 1819, American poet Walt Whitman was born.

In 1916, the naval Battle of Jutland began in World War I.

In 1926, the Sesqui-centennial Exposition opened in Philadelphia.

In 1941, British forces evacuated the island of Crete.

In 1942, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill vowed Germany would be conquered city-by-city.

Ten years ago—The U.S. District Court in Washington ruled that entertainer Dick Haymes was not subject to deportation because he had re-entered the country legally on his return from Hawaii.

Five years ago—Secretary of State Christian Herter defended the use of U2 reconnaissance planes over the Soviet Union.

Wittman Clouts 2-Run Homer In FRVL Contest

MENASHA — Kaukauna scored six runs in the fourth inning and went on to defeat Menasha, 9-6, in a Fox River Valley League Outing here Sunday afternoon.

Leigh Wachel went the route for the Klubbers and was touched for 11 hits but was aided by some faulty baserunning on the part of the Maces, plus timely hitting by his teammates. He struck out seven and walked four.

The Klubbers' big inning included a 2-run homer by Joe Wittman, a 2-run double by Hub Metzler, singles by Wachel, Guy Senso and Joe DeBruin, a hit batsman, an error and sacrifice fly.

A walk, Wittman's double and fielder's choice play produced a run in the fifth. Another scored in the seventh on a walk, error and sacrifice fly. The final marker came in the ninth on Metzler's single, a sacrifice, a stolen base and an error.

The Maces had three hits in the first inning but failed to score, but they picked up three runs in the fourth on two walks, a wild pitch, and hits by Bob Seukoski, Bill Gamme, and Russ Ruseh.

Mike Leroy's hit, a 2-base error and sacrifice fly resulted in another score in the fifth. Ruseh and Ken Stumpf hit doubles for the fifth marker in the seventh and Chuck Hoerke's ninth inning homer concluded the scoring.

Starter Dave Fisher was charged with the loss. He was relieved by Tom Konetzke in the fourth.

If the First Baseman's stance has a familiar look, there's a reason. The Baltimore Orioles' John (Boog) Powell started at first base for the 1960 Fox Cities Foxes. He has played mainly in the outfield since reaching the majors.

The play here shows the completion of a double play Sunday as Los Angeles' Paul Schaal is retired after teammate Julio Gotay had lined to Jerry Adair for the first out. The Orioles won, 4-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Twins Take Over AL Lead as Yankees Beat Chisox in 12th

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Stu Miller, Baltimore's Abominable Stowman, finally has completed his third consecutive shutout.

It took 14 appearances by the 37-year-old right-hander, but an eye-popping 180.

Miller finished the job Sunday when he came on in the seventh inning and got the final two outs to cut off a Los Angeles rally before the Orioles pushed across the winning run in their half of the inning for a 4-3 victory.

Miller, who started his string on April 29 when he was smart-liner to second baseman Jerry Adair.

3 More Strikeouts
Miller's fireballing colleague in relief, Boston's Dick Radatz, made his fourth straight appearance in the Red Sox's 3-2, 11-inning victory over Kansas City, pitched 1-2-3 scoreless innings and struck out three for a total of 16 in his last seven innings of work.

The Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, moved into first place by beating Washington 6-0 behind Camilo Pascual's four-hitter while the New York Yankees dropped Chicago to second by edging the White Sox 3-2 in 12 innings. Cleveland walloped Detroit 10-2 as Rocky Colavito drove in five runs.

Brooks Robinson knocked in two Oriole runs with a pair of singles in the third and sixth innings before Johnny Orsino, who homered earlier started the winning seventh-inning rally with a single off Ron Piche.

Orsino was sacrificed to second, Boog Powell was walked intentionally and then Adair stroked a game-winning single to left field.

Holder of World Series Record, McNally, Dies

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Mike McNally, listed in baseball record books as the first man to steal home in a World Series game, is dead at 73.

McNally performed his feat as a New York Yankee in the third game of the 1921 Series against the New York Giants. The Yankees won the game, 3-0, but lost the series, five games to three.

McNally, a native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., died Saturday in St. Luke's Hospital at nearby Pottsville.

A third baseman, he got his first major league assignment with the Boston Red Sox in 1915, then played with the Yankees from 1921 through 1925, and Washington Senators in 1925.

He compiled a lifetime batting average of .238 and played in three World Series.

He also suited for the Cleveland Indians.

2 Quincy Hurlers Lose No-Hitter

Two Quincy hurlers, Heinitz and Langrock, combined to pitch a 7-inning no-hitter against the Quad Cities Angels Sunday but the Cubs dropped the decision, 1-0, despite the efforts of the no-hit twosome.

Foxes Divide Pair, Duel Hawks Here

Connell's 5-Hit Game Clips C-Sox

CLINTON, Ia. — Larry Connell pitched a 5-hitter to pace the Fox Cities Foxes to an 8-1 Midwest League triumph over Clinton in the night game of a day-night twin bill here Sunday.

The Foxes dropped the afternoon tilt, 9-5, when Clinton exploded for all its runs in the fatal fourth inning.

The Foxes return to Goodland Field for a 7:30 p.m. date today with the Waterloo Hawks.

Connell gave up one run, that in the first inning, on a walk, single, sacrifice and wild pitch. He walked two and fanned nine en route to his fourth win against one loss for the season.

The Foxes scored four runs in each the fourth and fifth innings to cement the win. Four Clinton errors and Ray Wolkowski's 2-run single sparked the fourth-inning uprising. Five singles in the fifth frame accounted for the four scores.

Clinton secured the first game as Mickey Vandehey cracked a single and double, driving in three runs, to pace the 9-run C-Sox assault in the fourth frame.

The Foxes retaliated mildly with three runs in the fifth and another pair late in the game, but failed to overcome the 9-run explosion of Clinton. Rex Peters' bases-loaded double drove in the three fifth-inning tallies.

Braves' Hitters Enjoy Astrodome; Home Runs Help Nip Houston, 6-5

Redskins Pin High Hopes on Rick Casares

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Redskins hope they've found the fullback they need in Chicago's Rick Casares, a 10-year football veteran who'll turn 34 on July 4.

"I feel he can help us," said Coach Bill McPeak after announcement of a four player swap between the Redskins and Bears Sunday.

"He's a big leader and has lots of heart. And he is a good work-horse."

The Bears got center Fred Hageman and tackle Riley Mattson for Casares and place kicker Bob Jencks.

Broke Nagurski's Record
The National League's sixth leading ground gainer, Casares wiped out Bronko Nagurski's club rushing record in his decade with the Bears.

The 225-pound, former University of Florida star has gained 5,657 yards in 1,386 carries in NFL play.

The Redskins hope Casares, an aggressive blocker, can help spring their Rookie-of-the-Year, halfback Charley Taylor loose on wide runs, get short yardage when the going's tough and pose a threat as a pass receiver.

With quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and flanker back Bobby Mitchell, Casares and Taylor will round out the backfield.

Hampered By Injuries
Casares missed the last four games of the 1963 season and was hampered last year by injuries. In the last few years, he has been sharing Chicago fullback duties with Joe Marconi.

Casares was involved in the 1963 investigation that eventually led to the suspension of Paul Hornung of Green Bay and Alex Karras of Detroit for betting on games.

He said he had taken two lie detector tests. Coach George Halas of the Bears said Casares was cleared by both tests and National League Commissioner Pete Rozelle said later his probe had turned up nothing to incriminate any Chicago players.

Jencks, a Miami of Ohio graduate, has been the Bears' place linebacker Lee Roy Caffey and in two years kicked 64 of 69 extra points and four of 17 field goals.

Hageman and Mattson are both four-year veterans with Washington.

Lee Roy Caffey And Breen Sign For '65 Campaign

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers announced today the signing of linebackers Lee Roy Caffey and Gene Breen for the 1965 National Football League season.

Caffey, a 250-pound former Texas A&M star, won a starting berth midway through the 1964 season, including a 640 rolled by Spilski.

734 watched Jones put the Braves in the lead, 1-0, with a home run to the right field seats in the second inning.

They added another in the third on a double by Wade Blasingame, an infield hit by Felipe Alou and, after Eddie Mathews struck out, a tap by Aaron to Joe Morgan, who had no chance to get Blasingame at home.

Houston took the lead 3-2, in the fourth when Rico Carty let Joe Gaines' single get by him after singles by Jim Wynn and Walt Bond.

Alou opened the fifth with a homer to center. Mathews singled and Aaron stroked his round-tripper to put the Braves back in front, 5-3.

Houston got a run in the sixth on Ron Brand's single after a walk and a single, and another run in the ninth on Morgan's single after Brand walked and moved to second on Nellie Fox's bouncer to Billy O'Dell.

But Alomar's one-run single in the eighth was the difference. Blasingame picked up his fifth win against four losses, needing O'Dell's one-hit relief stint over the last 3-13 innings. Larry Dierker lost his second against one victory.

Red Chinese Modest About Atomic Blast

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following dispatch has been made available to The Associated Press by the chief of the South China News Services in Canada, who is now touring Communist China from which U.S. reporters are barred.

BY CHARLES LYNCH

PEKING (AP) — Communist China has been indulging in very little preening or self-congratulation since her second nuclear explosion.

In fact, the most underdeveloped of the world's atomic powers might be called most modest.

In official circles as well as among the people at large the second bomb test seems to be regarded as routine — no more than could be expected of scientists working under the guidance and inspiration of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Marine Capital Reports Profit

Small Business Investment Firm Had Loss in '64

A net profit before transfers to reserves of $205,592, equal to 39 cents per share, for the year ended March 31, 1965, was reported last week by Sheldon R. Lubar, president of Marine Capital Corp., in his annual report to shareholders.

This compares to a net loss of $13,105, before transfers to reserves, for the previous year.

Lubar said that Marine Capital's investment portfolio is highlighted by a substantial unrealized gain of $1,162,183 in two of its portfolio companies. They are Racine Hydraulics and Machinery, Inc., a Racine-based manufacturer of hydraulic equipment, and Empire Gas, a distributor of L.P. gas, headquartered in Lebanon, Missouri.

Portfolio Changes

During the year the number of portfolio investments decreased from 12 to eight and eliminated from the portfolio were Robin Distributors, Inc., Deltax, Inc., Great Lakes Homes, Inc., and American Outdoor Advertising, Inc. During 1965, Marine Capital expects Koss Electronics, Inc., and Ketrin, Inc. to be eliminated.

In discussing the future of the company, Lubar said the Board of Directors had concluded that it is the company's intention to seek out and negotiate the purchase of control of a substantial and financially attractive company.

The company has already sought and received an opinion from the Small Business Administration, stating that its proposed plan would be authorized under the regulations.

Ireland Slaps Ban on Commercialized Bingo

DUBLIN (AP) — A ban on commercialized bingo has been announced by Justice Minister Brian Lenihan on the basis of court rulings.

Charity and leisure bingo has been elected to the House of may, under a law. It told a senior house society in one case, but prizes must be limited and there can be no bingo advertising.

Baby's Death Stirs French to Campaign Against Mystical Practitioners of Unlicensed Medicine

BY PESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP) — It took the death of a baby and a long wrangle over a disputed leukemia cure to stir up the French to a determined campaign to wipe out unlicensed medical practitioners using every kind of "cure" from pendulums to mystic bicycles.

Some Frenchmen believe their neighborhood healer can do a better job than the local doctor in curing everything from a burned finger to cancer of the liver, and they pay enough to make a good living for the practitioners.

Perhaps it was Gaston Naessens, a former service station operator, who had as much to do with the campaign as anybody. He gained a reputation by treating a number of people for leukemia — deadly blood cancer — with a new preparation he worked out himself. He even went to Montreal to treat the son of a restaurant owner with his remedy, which he called anablast. The child died and the father has brought suit.

For weeks, Naessens was the center of a controversy fought out in the courts as to whether there was substance to his claims. The courts said no, denounced him for illegally practicing medicine, and fined him 18,000 francs, the maximum, and added 5,000 francs punitive damage for benefit of a local medical association.

Naessens claimed not only to have isolated the "germ" causing cancer, but to have developed a serum to combat it. French scientists testified in court that germ and cure were fakes. The prosecution called it a "real moral swindle."

Naessens is neither a trained physician nor pharmacist, but has shown talent in experimentation. He devised a whole network of implements, the work, said the court, of "a whimsical and bizarre handy-man."

Call Plumber

Aside from Naessens, what brought the hottest headlines was the death of Dominique Rakoczy, an 18-month-old girl. A pot of boiling water tipped over on her last March, scalding an arm. Instead of being taken to a hospital, the child was treated by the local plumber who recommended certain prayers and signs. The child died.

Despite stories in the press and the announced intention of the government to file charges against unlicensed healers, a crowd of faithful gathered at the plumber's door the day after the child died waiting to share in the prayer session he conducted regularly.

The newspaper campaign against unlicensed practitioners was just what the French government had been waiting for. It began preparation long ago of a new law to increase the penalties for such practice.

Faith Popular

The trouble has been — and still is — that some Frenchmen like healers. A mystic cure is 10 times more exciting than a medical one. Every corner of the country has its full time practitioners of styles of healing unknown to the medical colleges.

Jean Bergeras, spokesman on the subject for the French Ministry of Public Health, said there never has been a census on the number of healers in France but a figure used in the press is 40,000.

"It could be more, or could be less," says Bergeras.

The variety of healers in France is the wonder of the ages. There are the radiesthesis, who diagnose and prescribe treatment with the aid of a pendulum swinging near the ailing part. A healer in west France rides around the countryside on a bicycle with a "scorcerer's pendulum" swinging from the mudguard. With his own style of mumbo-jumbo he prescribes the time and place for ailing people to make pilgrimages — all for a fee.

The ancient Chinese medical science known as acupuncture is widely practiced here. Gold and silver needles are plunged into certain muscular or nervous centers until the patient looks like a dart board.

Extremely widespread is a cure based on the supposed transfer of a mystic "fluid" from the hands of the healer into the body of the patient. The transfer is accomplished through massage or passing of the hands over the affected part in a series of gestures designed to generate a magnetic accord between the healer and the sick.

The pendulum method is fascinating. Here is one variety beside the patient is ranged a series of medications. Then the pendulum starts swinging over the patient, or over the ailing part. The point of the affliction supposedly radiates certain waves which affect the movement of the pendulum — different waves for different ailments. The pendulum not only marks the location of the disease but points out which of the row of medications should be used to cure it.

A good many healers work by mail, asking for a description of the ailment, a doctor's analysis, or even a photograph. A promise of a cure comes — with first treatments to be outlined when fees are paid in advance. They can range from a franc or two per treatment, up to $20 and $50 for a longer series.

One healer named by the paper uses the pendulum methods and handles 50 to 130 cases a day, with fees ranging from 5 to 25 francs, $1 to $25 each. He offers free treatment to the poor.

Another sends his treatment by mail in letters containing the mystic "fluid" from his hands designed to work the cure.

Bergeras says part of the difficulty in eliminating such healers is that the public supports them, and often the press. But now, he says, the press and public sentiment appear to be turning. That, he said, would result not only in fewer people going to the healers, but would encourage the courts to impose stiffer sentences.

Possible penalties now range up to 18,000 francs and six months in prison for first offenders, up to 500,000 francs and two years in prison for repeaters.

Sell Anything to Anyone Who Needs
It, Captain Says

Following their motto, "Heart to God and hand to man," the Salvation Army of Appleton is quietly carrying out its work of helping those in need Though ready and willing to assist in any field where there is a need, Captain Jacob Bender, the officer in charge of this area, and his congregation of 80, have two specific projects. They provide shelter and food for the transient persons who wander through, and they operate a thrift store on the east side of town.
"We don't try to reform the wanderers," said Captain Bender. "We just help them while they are in town."
Wide Variety
The thrift store, moved to its present location on Wisconsin Avenue last fall, has a wide variety of items and just as wide a variety of customers
"We sell anything that can be reused to anyone who can use it," said Captain Bender. "We get people who are looking for clothes, cottage owners looking for furniture, and even antique dealers looking for priceless items"
Not everything that leaves the store is sold, however. Some of the items are given away to needy persons who can't afford them. In these instances the Salvation Army works hand in

Lawrence Says:
Education Amendment Might Receive Support

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — Amendments to the constitution are usually hard to get started and adopted nowadays, but there is one which might receive popular support instantaneously. It has to do with the rights of the states to control their own educational processes.

Lawrence

Although the federal government denies that it has any intention of dictating what is taught in the public schools or of interfering with local communities in their mapping out of school districts, it is becoming evident every day that the centralized government in Washington is going to take over more and more of the education process by using its power over the distribution of federal tax money.

Why, for instance, should a state from which a billion dollars in federal taxes is collected and to which is allocated $100 million for aid to its schools suddenly be denied such aid because a federal bureaucracy decides that the state is not complying with regulations promulgated from Washington?

Own Money
The money collected in federal taxes in a state far exceeds, of course, the allotments made to that state for education.
What is being returned to the states is their own taxpayers' money. But it is being used in large part to require compliance by the states through what is being called "legalized blackmail."

Congress in 1964 passed a law which condemned racial discrimination. The text of the provision follows:

"No person in the United States all, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under and program or activity receiving federal financial assistance." Any state which uses its federal funds to benefit schools that are predominantly Negro on the same basis as it furnishes funds to schools that are predominantly white would appear to be complying with the law as written by Congress. But the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has announced, through the U. S.

office of Education, that its own desegregation formulas must be applied. This is an extension of the words of the statute, especially since Congress did not specify that schools must be desegregated. This up to now has been handled by the courts.
Many states have not intentionally segregated their schools, but circumstances of residence and other factors have made it difficult to conform to any formula set up in Washington or demanded by pressure groups. This is true of northern states as well as southern states. Existing law provides for judicial review in each instance, but this today is a hazardous course to follow because already the Supreme Court has ruled that sooner or later schools must be desegregated.

Only Recourse Court orders, of course, have been litigated extensively, but the Supreme Court has taken upon itself the duty of enforcing the desegregation policy. Now that the executive branch of the government has joined in the battle and has decided to withhold funds as a method of punishment, a constitutional amendment would appear to be the only effective recourse available to protect the states from invasions of their authority to handle their own educational processes.

Certainly when the 11 states of the South pay a total of nearly $16 billion in taxes and the federal government decides for some arbitrary reason to withhold a portion of the funds allocated to them — especially when the reason is not at all related to the educational process itself — then the citizens of these states have a grievance.
The following table lists what was collected in taxes in 1964 in those states and what they will get back in the next fiscal year for education if they comply with federal commands:

State	U. S. Taxes Collected in State, 1964	U. S. Funds for Education, Next Fiscal Year
Alabama	$ 726,000,000	$ 63,450,000

Token Force

In what is obviously a token move, some 600 United States Marines have been withdrawn from the Dominican Republic and replaced with Latin American troops from five countries.

Obviously the removal of the 600 is not going to change things very much in the corridor in Santo Domingo where more than 21,000 United States Marines and paratroopers are patrolling to keep the rebel and junta forces from fighting it out. The replacements from Brazil, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador and Nicaragua are not going to make much difference or change the character of the peace action. But the switch was a wise one for a number of reasons.

When special envoy McGeorge Bundy returned to Washington from the Dominican Republic, he reported that there was still no real evidence that his mission to try to arrange some sort of a coalition government was successful. The United States compromise candidate for head of state, at least temporarily, is Antonio Guzman, minister of agriculture in the Bosch regime. Guzman is reportedly acceptable to the rebels who are at present in the apparent minority but not to the current junta leader, General Antonio Imbert Barreras, who sees a chance for complete victory and the top post for himself. Therefore, said Bundy, troops would be needed to keep the peace for some time.

Both sides are now sniping at the United States, if not always with rifle fire, at least with denunciations for our interference and what they term a return to gunboat diplomacy. The presence of troops of Latin American nations will help to provide at least a valid argument that this is not merely a United States move in its own interests.

More than that, however, the new troops should serve to give the Organization of American States more real participation than it has previously had. Whether or not there are Communists in control or even involved with the rebel forces, the civil war is dangerous to the Latin American peoples far more than to North Americans. Cuba is not about to attack the United States and the missile crisis made it plain that we would not tolerate direct Russian threats in the Caribbean. But the majority of Latin American countries are at best continually on the brink of turmoil and usually involved in threats of revolution if not actual outbreaks. Continued chaos in the Dominican Republic is an invitation to Communist exploitation and control which is far easier exported to Latin America than to the United States.

But the O.A.S. has been generally extremely reluctant to become involved as a responsible regional security organization. Only with subtle pressure from the United States and the emergence of various crises has the O.A.S. taken firmer stands and overcome its antipathy to "intervention." The efforts of Trujillo to overthrow the Venezuelan government, the training of anti-Castro troops in Guatemala and the Bay of Pigs affair did force the O.A.S. to issue far from unanimous resolutions and apply half-hearted sanctions against Trujillo.

It will be only when Latin American leaders come to realize the dangers to themselves and to domestic harmony in their nations from Castro's efforts to export communism—and other more old fashioned tyrannies as well—will they be willing to take collective action.

The involvement of even a handful of troops from some Latin American countries in the Dominican Republic should help that realization along.

Writer Feels Newspaper Should Stay Out of High School Affairs

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Unfortunately, public opinion is being molded and judgments will be made on the basis of a series of articles being run by your paper on the conditions at Appleton High School. We believe it does not benefit our school system to subject it to the type of reporting used in this article.

For example: Most of us will agree that the dissatisfied in any group are the most vocal—the most willing to testify to their grievances. Then it would seem that the 10 per cent sampling of teachers is a dangerous thing, for without polling all the teachers, your reporter might accidentally have gotten the opinions of the more melancholy members of the faculty.

In addition to this questionable method of research, your reporter makes such statements as "it is during the initial year of high school that average and low students need the discipline of study and supervision." Upon whose authoritative statement, and/or research does she base her statement? It would seem that such a positive remark requires some documentation. We were of the impression that such discipline and super-channel was at stake according to the war news as Germany and allied armies continued the bloody battle of Flanders. The Nazis were hurling an all-out force in the Valenciennes sector, wave after wave of tank-led infantry advanced in the Lens-Ypres sector. German warplanes and torpedo boats were hitting the channel waters. Dunkerque, tooth of Calais, was reported in flames after German bombing attacks.

The Memorial Day service for members of patriotic organizations and citizens was held the previous day at Trinity English Lutheran Church. The Rev. C. H. Zeidler gave the sermon "The Mighty Fortress." Trinity Church was chosen as the host church that year for the annual Sunday service.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, May 3, 1955.

A cherished, old flag was on display Memorial Day at Royallton. Gold fringed and mounted with gold cord and tassels the image of Old Abe, Wisconsin's famed Civil War eagle, perched atop the staff.

The flag was purchased shortly after the Civil War by some 30 veterans who organized the Bradford Phillips Post, Grand Army of the Republic, in the Town of Royallton. The eagle had double significance, since 100 men from Waupaca County served in the famous 8th Wisconsin "Eagle" Regiment. Several of the men were from Royallton including Phillips, for whom the GAR post was named. He was Royallton's first postmaster in 1861. He was killed and buried at Corinth, Miss.

The flag was presented to the Royallton Congregational Church by Civil War veteran Preston K. Hayward who also served with the Eagle Regiment. He was twice wounded in battle, but recovered and returned home. He gave the flag to the church shortly before his death.

vision of study began much earlier in a student's life—even, possibly (if you will excuse the expression) in the home! This particular comment by your reporter tends to overlook the obligations of parental responsibility. Are we trying to transfer our own disciplinary obligations to the school administrators?

Your reporter also makes the statement: "By sheer confinement, the student was previously given the opportunity to study." This comment overlooks the overcrowded conditions of the High School (2,000 students in a plant with a maximum capacity of 1,500) which necessitated a structured day with less confinement in order to accommodate all the pupils. (This has been compared to a canary salesman with 2,000 birds in a cage with perches to accommodate 1,500—500 canaries must be kept flying until their turn to light.) The structured day was designed by our administrators as the most intelligent move to handle a problem which we citizens failed to provide for foresight in planning adequate facilities to meet the growing population. It does not seem quite cricket to overlook now the problems we have handed our administrators, and to make their problems even greater by newspaper articles based on an interview of 10 per cent of the teachers and a portion of the Student Council. It smacks of Gallup poll techniques, and may prove just as unreliable.

Appleton has been very selective in hiring top qualified men and women for positions in our school system. We have a progressive school system because of this good judgment on the part of our Board of Education. It is our opinion that our school administrators should be given the opportunity to handle any problems that arise without being subjected to newspaper criticism that does not and cannot present all of the conditions and evidence.

This is a shoddy way for a newspaper to treat our hard-working school administration, to try to place the blame for the problems that exist solely upon their shoulders, ignoring the failure of the community and the shortcomings of the parents in providing working space and supportive discipline. What a help to the school system your newspaper could have been if it had pointed out to parents that their children were to be encouraged to spend their time in fruitful study at home or the public library during the time when all the "perches" were occupied at the school! The teachers are there to teach classes, not to provide baby-sitting services during our children's free hours.

Let us muster the support of the community to the aid of our school and its administrators. Give them a chance. If citizens or teachers feel that changes should be recommended, let them present their views to the School Board for consideration and action. In this way, problems can be viewed objectively without sensational journalism getting in the way.

AHS Student Feels Articles Misleading

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As a student at Appleton High School, I find Mrs. Otto's recent series of articles to be misleading. They give the impression that, during the past year, the attitude and conduct of the student body have depreciated greatly. I, myself, have observed no deterioration in the overall behavior of the students, nor in the condition of the school's facilities. There have been some abuses of this new system, just as there were of the old, by some students, but many others greatly appreciate Dr. Berner's approach. I hope that it will be given sufficient time and a fair chance to prove its merit.

Wisconsin Report

Ody Fish Seems Well Qualified for Big Job As Republican Chief

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In the selection of Ody Fish of Hartland as chairman of the Republican State Committee, the Republican Party has probably installed in a key place the best equipped, most energetic, resourceful and experienced man available.

Wyngaard

In accepting the job at the request of Gov. Warren Knowles, Fish has also undertaken what will almost surely be the most challenging, and often the most frustrating, task of his busy life.

The characteristics of the office of party chairman in Wisconsin are infrequently understood by the party loyalists down in the ranks. There is no pay in either party. Authority is more nominal than real. Achievement often goes without acknowledgement, almost always without reward. While the rank involves some prestige and satisfactions of publicity and public attention, there is little to show that occupancy of the office brings any benefits to the man who is ambitious for public elective place. Indeed, many one-time chairmen have found that their party chairmanship identity was a liability in subsequent attempts to win high elective office.

THE MILITIA

There is a tendency to describe political organizations in mechanical terms. Indeed, the word machine is virtually a synonym for the party apparatus.

Whatever situations have obtained elsewhere in the country, such conceptions have rarely been applicable in Wisconsin. One of the frustrations of some past state party commanders was the discovery that they have no real power to command in the sense of having their orders carried out. They are in the position of the military commander trying to fight a campaign with volunteer militia companies. They may or may not respond. In any event, their terms of enlistment are short and they are likely to quit when they are displeased with headquarters.

Fish belongs to the orthodox school of party management that holds that the chairman should be seen and not heard. As it happens, there is between him and Knowles an affectionate and trusting relationship that is fairly unusual in politics, and lucky for the party that has it. There will be no pretensions about policy in the Fish administration of the party. At his news conference following his election, Fish impatiently dismissed the idea that there are fissures within the party—as there plainly are. He is an organization Republican, he explained firmly, with the clear connotation that it is the business of the party manager to elect Republicans without worrying too much about their philosophical purity. More particularly, it is his business to defeat Democrats.

REALIST

The new chairman has a reputation for utter realism in his definition of his party's status and prospects, and for great skill in enlisting in productive way the help of Republican partisans.

At his first news conference, he paid reporters the compliment of candor as he said the Republicans may represent, in a fair arithmetic test, the minority view in the state, and that he feels there is a fair chance to recapture two of the congressional seats taken by Democrats last fall. Many men in such position would mouth the casual and routine predictions of great victories to come, even while they knew their listeners knew better.

In his own Waukesha County, political friends relate, Fish has been extraordinarily successful in recruiting campaign workers and in getting the most out of their talents and energies after enrollment. It is reasonably clear that skill will be critically important in the 1966 campaigns of his party. There is a tendency to exaggerate the state of political party organization, perhaps in large part because of the uneasy fears of their rivals. The truth is that the Republican machine is a spot-py one, with some glaring gaps that will invite the best work of its new chief architect.

Strictly Personal

Don't Let Labels Hide Potential Autocrats

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The familiar French maxim, "The more things change, the more they are the same," often applies with even greater force to personalities. People may change their opinions, even their attitudes, but the character-traits remain the same — St. Paul was not very different from Saul of Tarsus.

Harris

There was a saying during the Hitler regime that the Storm Troopers were like roast beef brown on top, and red underneath. That is, they wore brown shirts and were professedly Nazi on the surface, but a change of government would easily turn them into Communists.

I was thinking of this while reading a pamphlet by a violent anti-Communist the other day. Like so many of his kind, he was a former Red, who had seen the light. But the light had blinded him, as he is just as extreme and vindictive an anti-Communist as he once was a Communist.

His nuclear character-traits, which had attracted him to Communism in the first place, had simply changed their goals. In the past, he wanted to destroy all capitalists; now, he wants to destroy all Communists. From a social and historical standpoint, his change has been immense; from a psychological standpoint, it is negligible.

point, he has hardly changed at all. He is still what the behavioral scientists would call "an authoritarian personality."

This, of course, is why Marx was so dangerously, so damnably, wrong in his basic assumptions. While it is true that some people are attracted to revolutionary movements because of their acute sense of social justice, it is equally true that many more are attracted because of their own hidden hostilities and deeply-rooted power drives.

And, when such a revolution is successful, the people who supported it for humanitarian reasons find that the people with the power drives have taken over. It was hardly an accident that the barbarous Stalin, and not the civilized Trotsky, gained control of Russia; or that all the Old Guard idealists and intellectuals were executed by the Stalinist forces. The same, of course, is happening in Cuba today under Castro.

Mussolini was first a Socialist, and only later a Fascist; the one thing he could not have been is a democrat. His character-traits propelled him toward authoritarian movements of one kind or another that Hitler shrewdly called his party the "National Socialists" — thus appealing both to the rabid nationalists and the disgruntled "lumpenproletariat."

We should not be deceived by labels, titles, slogans or creeds. The John Birch leaders worship at the same authoritarian shrine as the Nazi and Communist leaders; the flag is different, but it waves over the identical spirit of repression and mistrust of the human spirit.

Sniper Fire, Steaming Heat Made Paratroopers' Arrival Frustrating

EDITOR'S NOTE — Troops of pulled themselves up sheer rocks and cliffs. A heavy tropical rain set in at making things cooler but dark, making things cooler but making the bush and the rocks slippery. The paratroopers still wore smooth-soled jump boots though they hope to be issued creaked jungle boots soon. They found an abandoned Viet Cong lookout with an excellent view of the airfield at Vung Tau and the highway leading from the town. They blew up the post and moved on up into the hills, struggling over the rain-slick rocks with their 50-caliber machine guns, bazookas, mortars and ammunition. They bedded down for the night in a downpour. The day's pouring sweat turned into shivering cold. No fires or smoking were permitted. A helicopter hovered over a hacked out clearing and dropped C rations and jerry cans of water.

VUNG TAU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Girls in bikinis were sunning and surfing as the three companies of paratroopers flew over this seaside resort. Artillery and bombs sounded shaply 15 miles away, softening up the landing zone.

The 173rd Airborne Brigade had landed in Viet Nam early this month. On Wednesday helicopters carried the 503rd Regiment's 1st Battalion into its first action against the Viet Cong. It was a frustrating experience with an elusive human enemy and relentless natural foes.

Sniper fire greeted the helicopters as they landed, then the guerrillas faded away. The men moved off in steaming tropical heat, two companies clambering up and over huge boulders toward the hills, the third moving through the valleys.

One man sprained an ankle. "Sure, I can go on. I'm airborne," he told his commander and hobbled off.

Clinging Vines

Throughout the afternoon the troops fought clinging jungle vines and thorns. Mosquitoes attacked in swarms. Faces, of hands and arms were streaked with blood from bites and the snags of thorns and vines. At times the vines came in hand-threw himself into the bush as the heavily loaded troops

The remainder of the company charged into the bush with weapons blazing. That ended that Viet Cong attack.

The wounded men were given first aid while young troops met their first combat shock their heads in awe and older veterans debated whether it had been sniper fire or an ambush.

"Bad Enough" "What difference does it make?" asked one younger man. "It's bad enough."

A veteran officer knelt by one man and said: "I've seen many wounded a lot worse who made it. You'll be okay."

"They ruined my new tee shirt," said one of the wounded. "Sorry about that," replied the other, using one of the most popular GI phrases in Viet Nam.

The men were carried to a clearing. A medical helicopter made a difficult straight up and down maneuver to take them out.

The company moved on and again came under fire. This time from a big Buddhist pagoda on top of a hill. They charged up the steep slope — "just like Monte Cassino," one trooper shouted — but found no one.

Wall Scrawl

Scrawled on a wall was "Da dao (down with) Ho Chi Minh." Lettered above was "Muo Nam (long live) Ho Chi Minh."

There also were cartoons of American soldiers with grotesque noses and Viet Cong rifle-men shooting down planes.

The troops moved down to a village and found an old couple at a second pagoda. They said eight uniformed, well armed Viet Cong had been in the village during the night and early morning.

While the troops wandered curiously through the pagoda and its spired cemetery, the Viet Cong again opened up from

Will he know enough to stay free?

To stay free a country requires informed citizens. In today's world newspapers are the great information multipliers. They are the foundation of responsible citizenship on which every free nation depends.

LUIS is ten years old, bright but only half-literate. Luis lives in a developing country. It is a country emerging from poverty, ignorance, political instability and disorder, struggling to enter the 20th century world of high living standards, modern technology and free democratic institutions.

In a few years Luis will be an adult. Upon him the future of his country will rest. Luis will depend, as men do in all free countries, on a newspaper to teach him, keep him informed. Luis' country needs newspapers. Newspapers can stir Luis, awaken him to the needs and opportunities which face him and his country. Only to the extent that Luis can emerge from his semi-literacy can he participate in the building of a free and modern nation. One hundred and fifty years ago, when America was an "emerging nation," Thomas Jefferson put it this way: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."

In this struggle to enter "a state of civilization," repeated today in nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America, American citizens have a stake. For ignorance anywhere, as we see every day, threatens freedom everywhere. This year the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation, an organization founded to encourage freedom of speech and press around the world, has inaugurated the World Press Achievement Award. Its purpose: to recognize and honor those newspapers in the developing nations of the world which are contributing to the building of informed citizens. These newspapers need encouragement.

Often they operate with obsolete printing equipment. Their personnel are ill-trained. They must frequently combat government hostility. Their readers, often wretchedly poor, lack the education to read or understand. Frequently, it is a struggle for these newspapers to exist at all. Yet the newspaper is indispensable in these countries, as it is in free nations everywhere, because nothing substitutes for the newspaper's capacity to educate, to arouse, to challenge, to inform. A newspaper sets forth the face of its age. It interprets the manifold possibilities which lie before Luis, his nation, or any nation. A free and independent newspaper offers people the freedom to think and to know and thus the capacity to do. The world to stay free needs such newspapers.

The 1965 World Press
Achievement Award
was given last month
to the Yeni Adana of Adana, Turkey.

The Yeni Adana had its birth as an instrument of resistance against French occupation forces in the Adana area. Since its founding in 1918, it has survived periods of revolutionary political change and has participated actively in an era of fruitful social change.

It is a small provincial newspaper of six pages and 2,500 daily circulation, but it has spoken with a strong, independent voice. In its early days its founder had to flee for his life to a mountain village where he continued to publish with rudimentary equipment and clandestine distribution methods. Various governmental, economic and legal sanctions have been taken against it. In 1960 the government closed it.

Despite these conditions and a community 75 per cent illiterate, the Yeni Adana has pursued a bold, independent editorial viewpoint. It has not hesitated to expose wrongdoing by government officials in its local communities. It has sought to acquaint its urban readers with conditions in the poor and remote villages surrounding them, as well as reporting local, national and foreign news.

The Yeni Adana has been a significant factor in the development and education of its community and an inspiration in the struggle for free expression and a fuller life.

Parents Advised to Channel Rocking to Other Behavior

DEAR DR. JONES: We have had a problem in our house for the past eight years. We had four daughters before that and then we had our fifth child, a boy. Ever since he could get on his hands and knees, he has rocked the bed. He also banged his head on the headboard until we removed that. But he still makes so much noise rocking that we haven't had a good night's sleep in all these years and even the neighbors have complained during the summer time when his windows are open and they can hear him.

Our doctor says he will outgrow this, but how will he ever outgrow his conviction that no one loves him—for we can't help hollering at him for keeping us awake.

We have tried everything to find out why he does this, but nothing seems to be the answer.

DEAR MRS. B. R.: All children enjoy being rocked and jiggled rhythmically. Apparently your son needs an unusually large amount of this kind of stimulation. Perhaps it will help reduce the nighttime rocking if he spends time each day swinging and swaying, singing loudly to music with a strong beat, and pounding rhythmically. Some head-bangers manage to "convert" to other behavior that's less bothersome to others—hair-tugging or knuckle-cracking, for example. Study your son during the day to see which unconscious gestures and movements he seems to favor, then suggest to him that he try to repeat them deliberately.

In any event, stop yourself and the others in your family from scolding your son. Obviously you're all getting enough sleep for health purposes, and it really isn't fair for you to use your son as the scapegoat to dump your bad tempers on.

To receive your copy of Dr. Jones' pamphlet "How to Prevent Jealousy and Fighting," send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Eve Jones care of this newspaper.

Bookkeeper Teaches Children Time Honored Value of Thrift

BY MARY FEELEY

It has been some weeks now since you looked over all those records you unearthed in order to make out your income tax. You've had time to digest the personal statistics that showed you where your money went in 1964.

The question is: have you learned anything from last year's spending? Did you wonder not only how, but why, in the world you stacked up so many time-payments, so many loans? And did you decide to play it smarter this year?

This letter in today's mail may nudge you into some good resolutions:

Dear Miss Feeley: Your recent column saying that it might be a good idea to change the arithmetic books Johnnie studies in school prompted this letter.

I work part time for a bookkeeping service, doing income taxes. Before I started this job five years ago, I never would have believed the large number of people who have themselves so hopelessly in debt. When they come in to have their taxes figured, most of them bring along a box or envelopes stuffed with payment books so that the interest can be figured and used as a deduction.

While some of them have payments to finance companies, which may have been necessary by some real emergency, I wonder if most of the people who come here will ever get out from under, because it's so easy to keep borrowing more. Most of them don't realize how much interest they are paying until we add it up for the year. It's heartbreaking, all right.

Many of the payments aren't for necessary things—they're for things such as boats, motors and trailers, or electric organs! In these cases, I don't find the debts heart-breaking!

One woman who had filed for bankruptcy a couple of years before (with her husband) had several little children who needed shoes and a number of other things, judging by their appearance. Yet she had one payment book after the other. Among the things they had gone in debt for this time were a tent, a guitar, and a set of drums. Evidently the bankruptcy proceedings hadn't sared them or taught them anything. And they aren't yet 30 years old. It made me wonder if credit departments check as carefully as they might—or if schedules of the bankruptcy courts are overcrowded!

What possesses a couple faced with large unpaid medical bills—in addition to others—to go out and take on more payments for merchandise they don't need?

My husband and I often discuss these things and are trying to teach our children our values, old-fashioned or not.
